The Hero of the Hour.

Professor Langsron evidently considered himself and was certainly regarded by the negro public as the great man of the Emancipation celebration here.

Had the Rev. John Jaspen been in good health and strength and been given a prominent part in the programme of exercises possibly he might have divided honors with the Republican leader, but the decrepitude of age, which falls alke upon great and small, white and black, quelled this formidable rival. The Professor was in great glory.

Whether riding in a back, condescendingly acknowledging the cheers of the multitude or pacing the platform declaring that this is not a white man's country, he was the same consequential, self-satisfied, and bombastic individual, and every movement and utterance proclaimed his leadership. Well, there is no one to dispute it. If Landsron is not the leader of the Republican party in Virginia, who is? Is it General MAHONE? Certainly not MAHONE measured popularity with Langsron before the Republican House of Representatives and Langston won; won and got Mr. VENABLE'S seat, drew seven or eight thousand dollars of Government money, was feted and serenaded, talked of spilling "hogsheads of blood," eulogized Mr. Hume, was commended and endorsed by President HARRISON, and came home and called his own convention and nominated himself for "reelection" to Congress.

During all this time his pathway was strewn with victory. He came from Petersburg to Richmond like a conquering hero. Applause followed his footsteps. their race and party.

We shall hear very little more of "the little General" in this campaign. President HARRISON and the Republican House of Representatives have dethroned him to make way for the Pro-

What we started out to remark is that ginia, it was perfectly natural for such a Sheriff a big knife, telling him that he man as President Harrison to recognize might have killed himself half a dozen and designate Professor Langston as their leader. This was the logic of the contest of Langeron es. VENABLE; this is the logic that ousts the little General from political eminence, and the logic that will bring back to our party all of the white men who prefer Democratic leadership to Lanoston leadership.

Now the question is, "Is there less race pride among white Republicans than among colored Republicans?"

He answered, "To keep from being murdered; that they were still after him, and tried to get in the same locality. stepped upon the top round and saved that night." After much persuasion he them. until he was made satisfied that no one was around to molest him. After gaining admittance the jailer took everything moveable out of his room except the mattress and covering, so that he could not again block the way. What was his surprise then on the next morning when he again found the door barricaded and in a most secure manner. This time he had fastened it so securely that he could be your risk. "Blind" passages not open it himself, but said he would

GIVEN AN AXE. As it was impossible to get it open any other way except to tear out the window and force an entrance, and as he pro mised faithfully to open it if the axe were handed into him, the jailer handed him one. No sooner did he have it in it with an old piece of iron he had found asked what he was doing he said that he did not intend to open door, but would kill the first man that tried to enter. No amount of persuasion or threats could induce change his mind. A pistol was brought into use to try to force him, but even this had no effect.

WOULD DIE DEFENDING HIMSELF. He said he would die in the cell in trying to defend his life. All other means having failed it was decided to cut the iron bars in the window an thus effect an entrance. But the trouble was how to do this, for he stood at the window with the ax ready to kill any one who had the courage to approach. Finally he was told that the window was insecure and that if it was not fixed that the parties who wished to kill him would get in that way, and that the only way to make himself entirely safe was to have the window fixed.

THE IRON BARS CUT. He thought this a good idea and agreed to let the blacksmith fix it. By this ruse the iron bars were cut, so that an entrance could be effected. But when an attempt was made to enter he raised his axe and stopped further promust be done. The door was securely fastened, the window was guarded by madman. He attempted to enter the window, but with them thought to keep him at a sufficient distance to allow an entrance. The brave colored man made another attempt to enter. This time the madman with the axe in one ready to strike, rushed to the window grabbed the muzzle of the pisto was pulled, the ball passing through his hand and entering the wall on the other side. He then let go the pistol and ran into one corner of his cell. PIRED A SECOND TIME. Seeing what an advantage had been gained the man with the pistol fired a se cond time to further frighten him This had the desired effect, and while the madman was standing crouched in one corner an entrance was effected. Others followed, and soon he was overpowered and chained to the floor. Upon investigation it was found that with the piece of iron which he found in the crevice of the wall he had ripped off three large pieces of two-inch siding which were fastened with six-inch spikes, a dozen in number, and had with the heavy pieces of timber made the door absolutely safe

THE BIG MICHIGAN FAILURE.

Assignce Henry Says the Assets Exceed the Liabilities.

(By telegraph to the Dispatch.) Saginaw, Mich., October 17.-Albert M. Henry, assignee of the R. G. Peters Company, of Manistee, says that though no schedule has been prepared, he does not think the liabilities will exceed two millions and that the assets, though largely scattered, will exceed that amount. He attributes the failure to over-expansion and the close money market. The friends of Peters say the company's assets will care for the liabilities. Peters's individual liabilities nominal assets are considerably larger. receiver. FRENZIED FANATICISM.

A Negro Killed to Prove His Pastor' Supernatural Power. (By telegraph to the Dispatch.)

COLUMBIA, S. C., October 17.—Primus Jones (colored) was killed Sunday morning at Sumter, S. C. A protracted meeting was being held by negroes at Beulah church, and great excitement prevailed. It was at first reported that Primus had been offered as a sacrifice to the Holy Ghost because of his incredulity. Deputy-Coroner S. A. Norris held an inquest at the church. The testimony showed that in a perfect frenzy of fanaticism Jones was killed by Rev. A. H. Durant, the negro pastor, and one Richard Campbell, a prominent member of the church, because the deceased had expressed doubts about the supernatural power of Durant to kill and restore to life, and that it was a test case, but the experiment failed. A large number of Durant's congregation believed that he possessed supernatural power until his failure in this case. The finding was that Jones was killed and murdered by Richard Campbell and A. H. Durant. The jury was composed of intelligent colored men, and the Coroner complimented them on their verdict. The

THE LOCOMOTIVE ENGINEERS. It is Given Out That They Will Not "Fed-

(By telegraph to the Dispatch.) Preusburgh, Pa., Cctober 17.—The International Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers met this morning with closed doors. After adjournment, First Grand Engineer Ingraham said they had not fairly started with their business. The morning session was taken up with the introduction of resolutions and their reference to the proper committees.

An official of the organization stated this afternoon that the engineers would not "federate." The grand officers will be instructed, however, to confer with the officials of the Federation and report some method whereby the organizations may work, not only in harmony, but in unison, and if possible in conjunction in case of trouble. The officers will report at the next meeting. This action will be in the nature of a compromise or peace-offering from the older and con-trolling element, as the younger mem-bers must be recognized.
